AT CITY HALL

The Elba City Council held its last meeting of the month on Monday night of September 20th and postponed any action until the next meeting which will be September 28th.

The council authorized the mayor to write a letter commending the rescue squad, Lions Club and Azalea Garden Club for their work in hurricane relief work.

Mayor Brunson discussed the need for a building inspector and the council took this matter under advisement.

Troy State Football Team Looks Good

The loss of 20 letters - including 10 starters - and prospects of the toughest schedule in the history of the school have failed to dim the optimism of Troy State University head football coach Billy Atkins.

His Red Wave closed out the 1968 season in a blaze of glory to win the NAIA national football championship - attracting fame for the college and national coach - of the year honors for Atkins.

Yet, a year later, the nation's top small-college mentor says he has more depth and better athletes than he's ever had at Troy State, and he readily admits that the Red Wave coaching staff is most optimistic at this point.

Atkins and chief aides Max Howell and Chief Reed feel this way in spite of the fact that among those 10 departed starters are people like the incomparable quarterback Sim Byrd and two of the best line-backers in the business, Larry Groce and Jimmy Gillespie.

Replacing Byrd, whose leadership qualities perhaps were as important as his passing, naturally is going to be the big job. However, Atkins is faced with a dilemma at this position that all coaches should have - four knowledgeable quarterbacks who can pass or run equally as well.

The four vying for the job are Al Head (backup man for Byrd last year), Lionel Rainey, Bobby Messaris and Jack Keener, a junior college All-American from Kansas. All are sophomores except Messaris, who is entering his first year of college ball after guiding Lanier of Montgomery to the Alabama High School 4-A title in 1967.

This donation is being made through the Salvation Army in Mobile, Alabama, which will in turn make distribution to the proper authorities along the Mississippi Coast.

Dorsey is also furnishing nearby communities with trailers, tractors and drivers for delivery of their relief collections to the stricken area.

In the aerial department, Head and cohorts will have what Atkins terms "a better group of receivers than last year" when Byrd was throwing 35 times a game. Fourth-year starter Danny Grant, one of the smoothest pass-catchers around, leads the way at flanker. Grant only holds 17 individual Troy State records and shares three others.

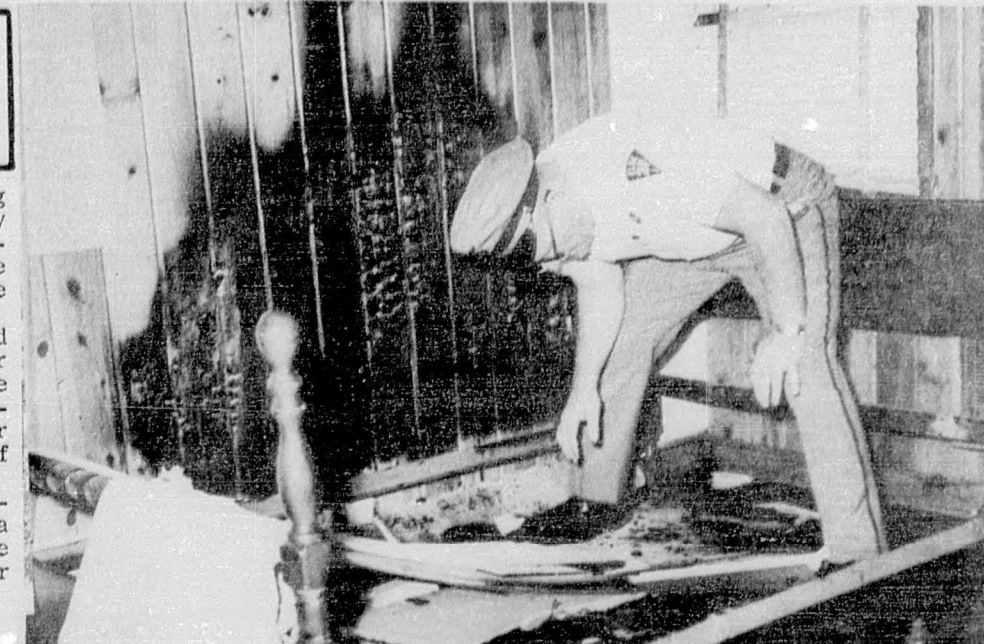

He'll have plenty of help from split ends Vince Green and Jimmy Hedrick and tight end Doug Taylor. Taylor, by best remembered by his outstanding performance in the national championship game against Texas A&M, a job that earned him most valuable linemen honors.

Another top split end, Bobby Enslin, elected to graduate and forfeit his last year of eligibility.

The running backs are another group that supports Atkins' claim of more depth and more ability. At fullback, he has Bill Badie, Billy Wayne Kellon and Bob Murphy, while Cecil Barber, J. A. Williams and Sammy Hayes are the half-backs.

About the defensive secondary, though, draws a smile from Atkins. He has returning All-American Ronnie Shelby and David Cooper at defensive half-back.

Colomer Mann stated the Highway Patrol will be working at top strength during the weekend for your protection.

Fire Claims Life Of Local Man On Monday

An early morning fire in one of the Elba Motel Apartments, Monday morning resulted in the death of apartment occupant, Louie John (Jake) Bailey, age 40. Bailey, a native of Elba was a salesman with Cook Chevrolet and lived alone.

The fire was reported shortly before 6 a.m., and when firemen arrived at the scene they had broken in the door to get to the fire. It apparently started from a dropped cigarette as the actual fire was confined to the bed and adjoining wall. Bailey's body was found on the floor between the bed and bathroom door. The apartment was filled with smoke and the cause of death, according to a preliminary autopsy report released Monday afternoon by the Elba Police Department.

Mr. Harris Murphree, who operates the apartment complex, stated Monday morning that except for the speedy professional efforts of the Elba police and fire departments, the toll in both life and property would have been much greater.

UPPER Police Chief Smart examines scene of fire on Monday morning.

LOWER Smart points to overturned ashtrays and at least one dozen cigarette butts that would have been propped between the bed and wall under normal circumstances.

Man Urges Motorist To Drive Carefully

With Labor Day weekend coming up, Col. Floyd H. Mann, Director, Alabama Department of Public Safety, warns that motorists should be especially careful in their driving.

Traditionally, Labor Day weekend has taken a high toll in life and property on the highways of Alabama. Last year 11 were killed and life were injured during the 72-hour holiday period. This need not be the case this year, Col. Mann pointed out, if every driver will practice defensive driving.

One major cause of traffic accidents on holidays, the Director says, is driving after drinking. Recent studies have shown that only one or two drinks are needed to seriously impair a person's ability to drive.

Another cause of accidents is just plain hurry. Everyone wants to get to the lake, beach, or to relatives' house, and in doing so, they forget to be careful. Make your plans so that you will have sufficient time to be courteous to others, take rest breaks, and enjoy the trip.

An important point to remember is that traffic is heavier during holiday periods. This means that you must allow more travel time and that you must be more alert. Too many families have their holidays ruined by unsafe driving practices resulting in a traffic accident. Don't let this happen to you, the Director said.

Be Proud That You're An American

Authorities say there is almost no market now for baled scrap metal. The baled scrap is being carted into a hydraulic press squeezing them into blocks the size of a brick and weighing 100 pounds. The blocks are steel from cars, but they say the baled scrap contains too many impurities such as glass, dirt and rubber.

I HAVE ALWAYS heard that the truth is always best. I tell the truth but I sure didn't say Senator W. G. McCaree, Jr. like should have said "it ain't so" and he would still be Senator. It looks like that old saying "the pot calling the kettle black" has never been more appropriate than with those Senators in Montgomery, the most disgraceful bunch of politicians this state has ever produced with.

It ain't so, it just don't pay to tell the truth. Not in Alabama's Senate, anyway. They're afraid to tell the truth and look like an infant. McCaree made two big mistakes - he got caught in Ted Kennedy's trap and then admitting his guilt. He got caught in Ted Kennedy's trap and said "it ain't so" he would be

Many people already believed that this type of thing was common, and now a member of this select committee admitted being caught with his hand in the cookie jar. I guess it is just a dream to hope that some day the lawmakers will be able to vote for a bill simply because they believe they are in the right, in exchange for support on another bill or in the pocket.

MacArthur Tech End Summer Term Friday

August 29 marks the end of the summer term at MacArthur Technical Institute. During the first week in September, classes will be scheduled for a one week vacation. Classes for the fall term will begin on Monday, September 8 with registration in all departments: General Commercial and Practical Nursing. In these two departments, because of the rigors of the work and rigid state board requirements, new classes are begun only twice a year.

An expanded program in Vocational Education now has 15 possible for students still enrolled in the regular high school program to take advantage of. Most of the course offerings of technical schools on a part-time basis. The Drafting Department has been added to the program for the past year with students from Opp High School.

Course offerings at MacArthur Technical Institute are being broadened at every opportunity in order to meet the need and demands of the area which the institute serves. Plans have been made and conditions appear favorable at this time for the establishing of a course in Barbering and also for broadening the program of the Business Education Department to include Computer Programming in the near future.

Registration for the fall term may be made at the Business Office on week days between 8:00 a.m. and 4:00 p.m. The first day of the summer term and the vacation period September 1 through September 5.

To Be Increased

The Southeast Alabama Gas District must make a modest rate increase, effective on all Natural Gas Bills rendered September 1, 1969, or later.

This is our first rate increase since 1958.

Part of our September 1 increase is to offset a new 4 per cent state utilities tax, effective September 1. Proceeds of this tax are pledged for the education of our children.

The rest of our moderate increase is required to offset steadily rising costs of materials, supplies and labor.

The table below illustrates TYPICAL INCREASES IN GENERAL SERVICE RATES. Column A shows the old rate (prior to September 1). Column B shows the new rate (September 1 and after).

IT'S UP TO YOU Day To Day Report On Tour Of Europe

By Howard E. Kershner, L.H.D.

Solution to Poverty Basically Spiritual

ONE of the tragedies of our times is the fact that many

A well meaning individual, burdened down with concern for the millions of our poor, simply sees no alternative to our futile War on Poverty.

The only hope he sees is more of the same, better done. A good many so-called conservatives have no idea how the free enterprise system is the answer to poverty.

A couple of centuries ago a single bushel of wheat cost an English laborer a full week's wages. Famines were common in the West as they still are in the so-called "backward areas" of today.

An important factor in initiating the great burst of progress in the West, which produced a better diet and made a host of luxuries become everyday necessities, was the breaking of the "chains" of government control that bound them so that men were at liberty to devise more productive tools and techniques.

The amazing story of Western economic development shows what people can do when they are free.

How the West won the "war on poverty" is a thrilling and instructive story. People now on welfare are better off materially than the masses of working people of Europe two or three centuries ago, or a billion people in the backward areas of the world today.

Our freedom, political and economic, our prosperity and our conquest of poverty have much more to do with the "Faith of our Fathers" than most of us now realize. Max Weber, the eminent German sociologist, insisted that the astounding progress of the West was a by-product of the Reformation.

The most essential ingredients of that spiritual-moral virtues exhibited by Luther, Adam Smith, the Puritans, Jefferson and early Americans. Apart from their dedication to the Divinely-ordained principles of right living and hard work, there was no way out of the abject slavery to poverty which was the lot of most of the human race for the past centuries. Apart from these same assured values there is no solution to the mass poverty which is creeping upon our world today.

Howard Kershner's "Conquerors of Poverty" is a new book published by the CHRISTIAN PUBLISHING CO., 1000 N. Main Street, Los Angeles, California 90012.

Day To Day Report On Tour Of Europe

(EDITOR'S NOTE: The following is a story written by Tony Martin, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. N. (Bill) Martin. He recently returned from a tour of Europe with his mother, Mrs. Belle Whitman, Fred Harper, Jr., and Buddy Whitman.)

We are now in Austria and it was getting late. After some efforts we found a place to stay that was my favorite for the whole trip. It was in a little resort town called Gloggenwist.

Aunt 'Belle' called home and found out everything was O.K. and got us the news from home. Tuesday we each went our separate ways to see things that interested us.

As we left Austria we crossed the Austrian Alps which are a lot bigger than the Swiss Alps and the women got a little scared.

In a few minutes we went into Germany and caught a glimpse of Hitler's summer palace. The zig-zag of the border put us back into Austria for the night but Wednesday morning we re-entered Germany.

We visited the castle that the Disneyland castle is modeled after and then traveled on to Munich. I slept till we got into Munich.

In Munich we got a nice room. After we got settled we walked to a beer hall and ate. I had a Coke, of course.

We walked a little further and peeked in the largest beer hall in the world. Germans were jumping on the tables, singing and carrying on something fierce. We left in a hurry.

Thursday we left for Mainz. On the way we saw many interesting things. One of these was the Dachau Concentration Camp. It was real sad, and a little too rough for timid folks. This was where Hitler had so many Jews killed. It had two old gas chambers, crematorium and several of the old things. You could still see the trenches that were used to carry away all the blood. You could see mounds, which had markers reading "Here is the grave of thousands unknown."

After a good long drive we arrived in Mainz. Here we spent the night. Friday morning we hurriedly left for a steamboat trip up the Rhine River.

The Rhine is really pretty, with castles and vineyards all along the banks. I remember the names of all the castles we passed. Most of them were perched on top of high peaks.

Finally we completed our boat trip and Buddy was there waiting for us with the car. From there we were to drive to Hannover and take a plane over to Berlin.

We arrived in Berlin at 1 a.m. and quickly found a place to sleep. Saturday morning we toured East and West Berlin. I think Berlin was the most beautiful city in the world before the war.

Sunday morning we flew back to Hannover, got the car and drove into Holland.

Amsterdam was our first stop in Holland and we found a perfectly awful hotel. I couldn't stand it and that was that. We toured Amsterdam on Monday and Tuesday and left for Paris on Wednesday morning.

To keep from wasting time with details (and my hand is about to give out) I won't say a whole lot. We got in Paris early and it was almost like coming home, since we had already been here once. We toured Paris on Wednesday, Thursday we had breakfast in bed. Mother and I'delle got their hair fixed. Meanwhile, Fred had gone for a walk and Buddy had walked to American Express, so I went up to our room and just messed around.

That afternoon we went on a bus tour of Paris. We saw all of Paris on that trip.

Friday morning is when three weeks of going caught up with me. I managed to go a little bit at first but after a while, I told everyone that I was going up to the room and rest my eyes. Maybe the rest of me wanted to rest too, because I went right to sleep. I slept until 5 p.m. and missed going to Notre Dame, but they all told me about it.

The next day we decided to take a Seine Boat trip through Paris. It was nice, since I slept most of the time. When I did look, it was at this boy and girl beside us smooching. They hardly ever came up for air.

Saturday was our last day. I woke up feeling good and ready for anything. Anything, except what happened, of course.

We were not supposed to leave Paris until 3:45 that afternoon and didn't have to be down there until 2:30 so I had a lot of time to do nothing. And brother, I did just that.

After a little while I got bored, and I amused myself by riding the elevator or by dropping spitballs down the elevator shaft. I also worked on a story I had started writing.

I realized I hadn't bought Daddy anything from over there, and I just couldn't stand to go home empty handed. I mean, it just wouldn't be right. So I ran down the street a few blocks and got him a key chain. I suppose it was better than nothing. I had thought about getting him something at other times but the nicer things were too expensive. I think I'm getting off the subject. (I can tell when most of your folks out there stop reading, so have patience. This is the last day.)

We landed in New York at about 10 a.m. In customs we went slow. A huge fat man was working at the customs desk and he was the meanest man I saw on the whole trip.

We had to move fast to catch a car to our home-ward flight but we made it.

When we touched the ground, one thought was in my mind: I like to go but I sure like to come back!

In what you have just read I was not too detailed on what the favorite things I saw were. It was hard on pick out my favorite places of interest but there could be a few.

In Paris, my favorites were Notre Dame and the Louvre. I missed seeing "Mistler's Mother in the Louvre" and that makes me mad!

In Rome, I really liked St. Peter's, Vatican City, and all the old Roman ruins. I even liked the opera, even if I didn't know what it was all about.

St. Mark's Square and the Palace of the Doge were about my favorite in Venice.

The Gallery of the Academy where Michaelangelo's David is kept, and the Baptistry of St. John the Baptist with its gold doors, which Dante called "The doors of Paradise" in Florence.

East Berlin is where all the prettier buildings were. Dachau Concentration Camp, Ludwig the Second's Castle, Nymphenburg Palace and my boat trip on the Rhine with all those hundreds of castles along the river banks.

In Amsterdam my favorites were all the canals and all the windmills on the outskirts of Amsterdam.

In Brussels there was not much to see except the old guild halls, which was worth the trip to see. Some of the things they consider junk would be worth hundreds over here.

backs. Both will be starting for the fourth year in a row.

Returning letterman John Fowler and transfer Jack Smith should round out a secondary that Atkins believes will be as "good as anybody's in the country."

Both the offensive and defensive lines, which will average 225 pounds per man, should be much improved. Offensive starters returning are center Paul Brantley, guard Hugh Clark and tackle George Hiers.

Mike Williams, Jim Caldwell, Jim Duncan, and Marcus Caloway will fight it out for the two slots on the other side of the line. Mike Sadler at tackle and Bill Russell at end will anchor a strong defensive line while Randall Cassidy will add more strength from his end position. Fred Owens or Caloway should win the other tackle job.

Survivors include his father, Elmer Cauley; one sister, Lucy Spears, New Brockton.

WORTH TALKING ABOUT

Health-planning agencies in your community will welcome not only because they need your financial assistance for planning operations to help augment other funds but they also need, and will heartily desire, the voluntary citizenship participation of you and other executive personnel. The health system needs hard-headed management counsel and views from other than professional circles. You can stimulate and aid in development of more business-like practices in managing the health care system, and some kind of cost analysis of results. Participation in this way is for more meaningful than hand-writing on the sidelines.

SAVE TIME

You can save time, energy and money with an automatic clothes dryer. If you don't have one, you might be wise to think of adding an automatic dryer to your home laundry equipment.

A dryer can save the average homemaker 20 work days and 40 miles of walking each year.

When rain threatens, you avoid the necessity of gambling with the weather. You also do less lifting, carrying and stretching. This saves energy for other tasks around the home.

Clothes dried in a dryer often wear even better than those dried outdoors in sunshine and fresh air. The fast drying makes clothes always available when your family needs them.

CANTALOUPE

A cantaloupe can be whatever you want to make it -- an appetizer or a dessert, a time saver or a challenge to your creative skills.

It furnishes food value with few calories. One-fourth of a six-inch diameter cantaloupe has only 31 calories and furnishes vitamin A, vitamin C, phosphorus, potassium and sodium.

But do you know how to select a cantaloupe? Select a melon that is heavy for its size and has fragrant aroma. Cantaloupes that are un-ripe have little or no odor.

A good cantaloupe should be well-netted, with the netting thick, coarse and well defined. The skin under the netting should be a light green background with a gray or yellowish cast. There should be a dent or stem scar where the melon was attached to the vine. This depression should be dry and well calloused with no stem clinging to it.

EGGS

Eggs need to cook slowly. If your fried eggs are tough with frizzled edges, may be cooking them on too high a temperature.

NOISE

Carpeting in the kitchen need not be a status symbol. It can be one of the best sound barriers you can add to soak up kitchen noises that come with everyday work and automation.

It has been said that many homemakers who have switched to carpeting say it's almost like a soft cloud has dropped over their kitchen area. Noises are softened and nervous tension eased.

Other noise softeners in the kitchen can be window curtains -- the more cloth, folds and pleats, the better the sound absorption.

Wood cupboards will absorb more sound than metal. Acoustical tile both on the ceiling and under the upper cupboards also. Asbestos liners under the Insulation helps reduce noise. Some manufacturers are using insulation in equipment where it has never been used before. During remodeling or building new houses, good insulation helps deaden sounds. Planned placing of closets around the work area can be a natural sound barrier, too. Also, when building, install silent wall 25 to the 4th Infantry Division in Vietnam as a maintenance officer.

645 ALABAMA QUOTA

State Director Hugh J. Caldwell, Jr., said that Alabama's Selective Service induction quota for September will be 635 compared to 645 in August. To obtain the 635 draftees, Caldwell has ordered some 921 Alabama registrants to report to the induction station at Gunter Air Force Base, Montgomery. In August 935 young Alabamians came to the station to fill the quota of 645 men.

Caldwell said the September national Selective Service call is for 29,000 registrants, compared to 29,500 in August. The September call will be divided -- 27,500 to the Army, and 1,500 earmarked for the Marines. The county-by-county call includes 10 from Coffee County. It's almost like basketball has turned into a participant sport instead of spectator sport. Everybody wants in the act. -- Wayne W. Kittley, The Krens (Tex.) Tribune.
